

Tram Anh is the Co-Founder CFTE, the Centre for Finance, Technology and Entrepreneurship, is a Fintech Fellow with the Centre for Global Finance and Technology at Imperial College. Tram Anh serves as Board Member at EDHEC. Ambassador for Singapore Fintech Festival.

Tram Anh, passionate entrepreneur based in the United Kingdom. She co-founded CFTE, one of the fastest-growing learning platforms in Fintech and in Digital Finance, with a mission to establish an education platform that allows professionals to up-skill in a rapidly changing industry transformed by emerging technologies.

As of today, It has helped to train over 100,000+ learners from many different backgrounds from leading organisations and banks to tech companies and entrepreneurs. It has curated some of the largest programmes in Fintech with industry leaders featuring in the courses.

CFTE is established in the UK, offices in London, Paris, Singapore, Hong Kong, Abu Dhabi, Luxembourg and will expand.

Prior to CFTE, Tram Anh was a leading executive in finance, but left her job to solve a problem she saw looming in financial services - a technology skills shortage. She followed her passion to bring about a skills revolution in finance to not only transform the industry, but to help a multitude of stakeholders like women and people from different backgrounds and walks of life to enter the new world of finance

Today, she works tirelessly with governments, policy makers, startups, experts from the industry and academia to push initiatives in continuous education. She believes that in a world increasingly dominated by technology, people must remain at the centre of society and organisations, with education and training key to helping individuals thrive in a fast-changing ecosystem.

Of Vietnamese origin, Tram Anh was born in France, and lived in Paris, New York and now in London, helping bridge the gap between Europe and Asia in education, technology and philanthropy. She supports EPIC Foundation, a new model of disruption in the philanthropy. Keen advocate of diversity into the new world of Finance and make finance more inclusive. She was listed in Top 100 Women in Fintech 2019 and the Innovate Finance Women in Fintech Powerlist, Fintech Leaders Europe by Lattice80. London's top Women in Fintech 2019 by Business Insider.

Tram Anh has an understanding of both Asian and Western cultures and loves to bring the best of them together.
